DAC seeks visa-on-arrival facility for more countries

Our Dubai Correspondent

DUBAI Airports Company (DAC), the operator of airports in Dubai, has called for visa-on-arrival arrangements with more countries in the wake of unprecedented visitor growth following the introduction of such facility for some countries.

"Visa-on-arrival arrangements have led to a surge in tourists visiting Dubai, leading Dubai Airports to seek similar measures to drive traffic. Faster and easier visa arrangements have played a key role in attracting more visitors to the city," said Dubai Airports CEO, Paul Griffiths.

"Visa facilitation agreements are a major way to get more traffic into Dubai. If you can facilitate more people with visas, clearly you attract more people to come. Traffic is up every country where the visas have opened up... A situation where we are able to attract even more visitors (from other countries) will be important for our numbers and for the prosperity of Dubai," he said.

Mr Griffiths said, Chinese tourists are an example of how visa-on-arrival are helping bring more people to Dubai. As a direct result of relaxing visa restrictions, passenger traffic through Dubai Airports from China surged 19.4 per cent to 2.2 million.

The UAE introduced visa-on-arrival for Chinese tourists in September 2016, a year after inbound overnight Chinese visitor numbers – those who choose to stay in the city for a day instead of getting on the next available flight when on a layover – jumped 41.4 per cent the following year.

Moreover, the first five months of 2018 saw a record 4,00,547 Chinese visitors in Dubai. Chinese visitors currently account for four per cent of the traffic and 15 per cent of sales at Dubai Airports, making China Dubai's fastest-growing source market for travellers.

Meanwhile, passenger traffic from Russia climbed 28 per cent to 1.3 million after the easing of visa policies in January 2017, according to figures released by Dubai Airports.

Out of 20 top source markets from which Dubai attracts visitors, travellers from 14 countries can avail some form of visa-on-arrival, according to Dubai Tourism. Indian visitors were the most recent recipients of the facility and are eligible for a 14-day visa-on-arrival, provided they have a valid US or Schengen visa.

MENA, Western Europe and South Asia are the largest source markets for traffic, with Dubai pushing towards a consolidated aviation and tourism strategy that looks to draw more tourists from destinations within a four-seven hour flight from the city, as well as from destinations further afield where potential remains.

Only six per cent of traffic originates from the Americas, reciprocal visa waiver agreements for citizens of both Latin American countries and the UAE were signed in June 2017 and 2018 respectively.

Figures for yearly traffic growth are soon to be announced, while national carrier Emirates actively promotes fares and adds flights to destinations such as Santiago in Chile and Sao Paulo in Brazil.

AI Express enhances flights from Kochi to Singapore

Our Kochi Correspondent

AIR India Express, the national budget carrier, enhanced its three-day a week Kochi-Singapore service to daily operation with effect from October 29. However, there is a change in the route. Instead of the Kochi-Madurai-Singapore route, the daily service will be operated via Bengaluru, that is expected to generate more revenue.

At present, the flight is operated on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The flight IX-484 departs from Kochi at 10:40 am (local time) and reaches Singapore at 7:05 pm (local time). On the return direction, flight IX-483 will depart Singapore at 8:10 pm (local time) and arrives in Kochi at 11:45 pm (local time).

The daily service via Bengaluru will be operated on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. The flight IX-486 will depart Kochi at 10:30 am (local time) and reach Singapore at 7:55 pm. On the return direction, the flight IX-485 will depart Singapore at 9:10 (local time) and arrive Kochi at 1:30 (local time).

AIE official said, the airline has added one more aircraft on lease to its fleet taking the total number of flights to 24. The new aircraft is set to be deployed from the soon to be opened Kannur International Airport. The airline has got the privilege to operate the maiden international flight from the airport. This would be to a Gulf destination and the official said the details of the schedule are being worked out.

To mark the beginning, Air India Express has already operated its tests flight at Kannur International Airport on September 20.

Remittances by expats in Saudi Arabia down 17%

Our Saudi Correspondent

FOREIGN remittances by expatriates working in Saudi Arabia declined by 16.9 per cent year-on-year in August, or 2.1 billion riyals, according to the Saudi Arabian Monetary Authority (SAMA). The monthly level remittances fell 14 per cent by around 1.7 billion riyals compared to its level in July.

The data of SAMA's monthly bulletin showed that remittances reached 10.4 billion riyals in August, compared with SAR 12.5 billion in August 2017, and 12.2 billion riyals in the month before. Expatriates remittances totalled 93.7 billion riyals in the first eight months of 2018.

Japan to ease visa rules for start-up entrepreneurs

AAT News Service

JAPAN will soon relax eligibility requirements for business manager visas, seeking to attract talented entrepreneurs in greater numbers.

The applicant currently must have a physical office for the business in Japan. A business owner renting shared office space will also qualify.

Setting up an office can be difficult for foreign nationals because of high rents or the need for a Japanese guarantor in certain cases. Many foreign entrepreneurs like to use shared offices to not only save money, but also mingle and network with peers.

The company will have to be less than three years old and registrable under the shared of-ice space. Support from the Japan External Trade Organization will be another eligibility requirement. The business will need to have capital of at least five million yen ($45,365) or two full-time staffers.

About 20,000 foreigners stayed in Japan under business management visas in 2016 – less than one per cent of medium- and long-term foreign residents. Japan is also considering revising visa requirements to support those preparing to start businesses.

Business confidence in the UAE at record high

Our UAE Correspondent

DESPITE slower growth, optimism among businesses in the UAE's non-oil private sector accelerated to a record high, according to a survey by Emirates NBD.

The survey was compiled by Emirates NBD and produced by IHS Markit, a financial information services company. Many companies attributed business confidence to new product launches, projects surrounding Expo 2020 and marketing initiatives.

The expansion of the UAE's non-oil private sector economy eased to a five-month low in August as new business orders grew at the slowest pace in 20 months amid a sluggish job market, the survey said.

The seasonally adjusted purchasing managers' index – a composite indicator designed to give an overview of operating conditions in the non-oil private sector economy – dropped to 55 in August, from 55.8 in July. A reading above 50 suggests the non-oil economy is growing, while a reading below 50 indicates a contraction.

Despite improving business confidence, the latest data marked the first slowdown in employment since the survey began in August 2009. The rate of decline was slight overall, with some firms attributing job-shedding to efficiency savings.

"The softness in employment, which has been evident to some extent since 2016 but appears to have slowed even further this year, is surprising in the context of strong reported growth in output and new orders in the private sector over the same period," said Khatija Haque, head of Middle East and North Africa research at Emirates NBD.

Output growth accelerated and remained sharp overall, and continuing the sequence seen since April, new export orders rose once again during August. The rate of growth was marked overall and reflected stronger inflows of new business from neighbouring Gulf Cooperation Council countries, the survey noted.

Curb Inequalities

THE world is full of inequalities, be it in poor countries or even the richest countries. With proper measures mankind can surmount the evil. For example, if labour, taxation and social welfare policies in countries around Europe and Central Asia can be brought into the 21st Century, the countries will be able to tackle rising inequality between groups and help workers face increased uncertainty, says a new World Bank study. The study calls for a fundamental rethinking of policies to ease the growing divide between those who benefit from new economic opportunities and those who are left behind in an ever-more flexible economy. "Although countries in the Europe and Central Asia region have vast experience with social welfare institutions and programmes, these were designed for a different economic environment and they no longer provide the same benefits for citizens as before," says Cyril Muller, World Bank Vice-President for Europe and Central Asia. "Long-term wage employment is no longer the norm, especially for younger people, and we need to ensure the benefits of growth and opportunities are more equally shared." Despite Europe and Central Asia being one of the most equal regions when compared globally, many citizens are still not experiencing upward mobility, feel stuck in an inequality trap, and are more vulnerable than previous generations. Furthermore, declining financial and job security means that a greater share of the middle class is vulnerable to falling into poverty – all of which has led to lower trust in institutions, greater polarisation, and rising populism within society. To address the challenges, the report proposes a set of three policy principles: moving toward equal protection of all workers, no matter their type of employment; seeking universality in the provision of social assistance, social insurance, and basic quality services; and supporting progressivity in a broad tax base that complements labour income taxation with the taxation of capital. "When we ask people about their well-being, we hear concerns about rising inequality and insecurity. This report investigates the causes of these concerns by analysing the changes in income distribution in recent decades," says Maurizio Bussolo, World Bank Lead Economist for Europe and Central Asia region and co-author of the report. "We believe trying to stop globalisation or technology is not the solution. Instead, a new social contract, with a fairer way of sharing risks and opportunities, is needed to preserve and expand the impressive economic gains the region has made in past decades." The report identifies four types of tension between groups that are eroding social cohesion: disparities between young and old generations; inequalities between workers engaged in different occupations; unequal access to opportunities based on geography; and inequalities based on gender, ethnicity, background and other factors, rather than individual efforts or abilities. The report emphasises policies aimed at reducing tensions by protecting all workers, improving social services, and making tax systems fairer.

Is Cong Treading Path Of SOFT HINDUTVA POLICY?

IS the Congress party treading a path of soft Hindutva policy to counter ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in the coming national elections? Is it the right path to counter another and more hard-line brand of Hindutva of its main political opponent BJP?

These questions are doing the rounds in political circles in India since last November when Rahul Gandhi visited different temples in the run-up to the assembly polls in Gujarat. The same question was asked again earlier this year during Karnataka state elections.

The result of Rahul's temple-hopping: Congress put up an impressive performance in Gujarat reducing the BJP to its worst-ever electoral show in Gujarat even though it could not prevent the Saffron Party from retaining power in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's home state. In Karnataka, the Congress emerged as the second-largest party after the BJP, but had to depend on alliance-building to grab power in the state.

While the debate may go on as to how much did Rahul's temple visits contributed to his party's electoral performance in Gujarat and Karnataka, the Congress seems to have come to the conclusion that it is paying off politically.

What has added more meat to such thinking is Rahul's recent pilgrimage to the Kailash Mansarovar in Tibet, considered by Hindus as the abode of Lord Shiva. He brought the holy water from Mansarovar Lake and offered it to the memorial of Mahatma Gandhi before undertaking a 'padyatra' on September 10 to drum up support for a countrywide anti-government general strike called by the Congress in protest against fuel price hike.

The Congress' pronounced emphasis on religious symbolism in the political events including the coming assembly elections in the central Indian state of Madhya Pradesh, is hard to miss. Madhya Pradesh, along with Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh states, will go to assembly polls in a couple of months.

The BJP is in power in all the three states and Congress has been out of power in Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh for three decades.

On September 23, Rahul

and devotional songs will be played throughout the duration of the yatra.

Congress also announced that it will develop Madhya Pradesh into a religious tourism hub by developing all places of pilgrimage and conserving them according to ancient Hindu beliefs if it comes to power.

The party alleged that the state government has made several announcements about developing religious places and temple towns during elections, but did not follow them up.

repeatedly attacked the Congress espousal of the cause of religious minority as an "appeasement". To some extent, this succeeded in creating a perception that anti-BJP parties are going out of their way to keep minorities in good humour even though their outreach has largely been tokenism and has not made a significant improvement in their lives.

This has put the Congress and other rivals of the BJP in a somewhat defensive position. Even a section of Muslim intellectuals is of the view that the Congress should stop focussing Hindus gravitate towards the Saffron Party over the last few years and often triggered a consolidation of Hindu votes cutting across cast fault lines behind the BJP like the one witnessed in the 2017 assembly elections in Uttar Pradesh.

Given such a milieu, will it be right for the Congress to stay away from religious symbolism at a time when the BJP is trying to construct a polarising narrative in the run-up to the 2019 national elections over the twin issues of National Register of Citizens (NRC) in Assam and the arrest of five leading rights activists for their alleged Maoist links.

While the NRC has a communal dimension to it, the rights activists arrest gives a political touch. For the BJP, both fit into its efforts to build a "nationalism versus anti-nationalism" debate. This was clear from BJP President Amit Shah's recent high-decibel campaign on the two issues in Jaipur.

On the other hand, the opposition has so far refrained the temptation of being drawn into the divisive debate. Rahul Gandhi has come in for criticism for his temple visits and pilgrimage from a cross section of opinions ranging from the BJP to Left, liberals and a section of Muslims which consider the visits as compromising with the tenet of secularism.

The big challenge for the opposition in India is to create a counter-narrative to the BJP's and at the same time articulating the cause of minorities in a manner that does not put off a section of Hindus that is perceived to have become disenchanted with the BJP in its last four-and-a-half years of governance.

— PTI Feature

Gandhi held road show along a mythical route taken by Lord Rama on way to his 14-year exile. The party accused the BJP of swearing by Lord Rama but failing to develop the route after announcing it a decade ago.

"We want Lord Rama's blessings ahead of the elections," Congress leader Harishankar Shukla, the brain behind the proposed yatra, said. The party is getting ready a chariot in which Hindu saints will sit and hymns Pradesh Digvijaya Singh recently undertook a journey along the Narmada River, considered sacred by Hindus, and said the party will develop the 3,300-kms route further by setting up Vishram Bhavans for the people who undertake the pilgrimage.

The Congress also promised to build cow shelters in all panchayats in the state. It is in sync with the party's signals to the Hindu constituency.

Over the years, the BJP has on the community and instead talk about an omnibus development of all communities, so that the party can be insulated from the charge of "minority appeasement."

This was clear from the interaction Rahul Gandhi had with a team of Muslim intellectuals sometime back. There is a view among a section of political observers that the anti-BJP parties' articulation of the minorities cause has helped a section of

V-P asks govt to give priority to agri sector

AAT News Service

AGRICULTURE is the backbone of Indian economy and it should be on the top of the agenda of the Central government, said the Vice-President, Venkaiah Naidu. While addressing the 'New India Conclave' organised by Y4D Foundation, in New Delhi, the Vice-President said that there is a need to make agriculture remunerative and farmers must be encouraged to take up allied activities like poultry, horticulture, sericulture, bee-keeping, dairy and others to improve income.

There is a need to put in place for easy availability on loan at an affordable price and assured power must be supplied to farmers living in villages. Schemes like loan waivers and free power may not provide lasting solutions to agriculture distress in the country, he added.

"As country we have failed to translate Gandhiji's dreams into reality even 70 years after attaining Independence. There has been uneven and lopsided development with urban areas witnessing rapid growth and the rural areas remaining backward," said Mr Naidu.

There is a need to bridge urban-rural divide at the earliest so that country's progress towards becoming the third-largest economy in the world in the next 10-15 years is not hampered.

The rural areas have to become thriving hubs of economic activities, with the agriculture playing an important role in the overall prosperity of the rural people, he added.

The youth should be in the forefront of freeing India from the clutches of poverty, illiteracy and other social evils like gender and caste discrimination, particularly in the rural areas.

Youth needs to acquire the right mix of knowledge, skills and attitudes required to overcome the 21st Century challenges and reap the demographic dividend for the country's growth and development, he added.

RBI issues instructions for safety of lockers in banks

AAT News Service

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has issued instructions to banks regarding the safety of bank lockers for exercising due care and necessary precaution for the protection of the lockers provided to the customer, reviewing the systems in force for their operation on an ongoing basis and taking necessary steps, having well-documented security procedures, properly training staff concerned in the procedure, and internal auditors ensuring that procedures are strictly adhered to.

Further, as per an RBI communication to banks (in the context of an incident of bank burglary in which safe deposit lockers were broken open and jewellery reportedly taken away), the liability of the bank depends on the facts and circumstances of the incident and that despite the conditions of the lease agreement that lessees should insure the contents of the lockers, bank can be held liable if negligence is proved (having regard to the conditions of the strong room, the lockers, the safeguards, require in the light of the location etc).

As per the inputs from public sector banks (PSBs), during the last three financial years and for

been recovered so far in respect of these cases.

As per the inputs from PSBs, banks exercise reasonable care and precaution for the protection of the strong room and the lockers provided, and that security measures including security of the period up to July 31, 2018 in the current financial year, 43 cases of theft took place in the lockers of PSBs and the approximate amount of loss reportedly suffered by customers is ₹ 16.8 crore.

PSBs have informed that FIRs were lodged in all the cases, some arrests have been made by the police, and valuables worth ₹ 6.5 crore have locker rooms are reviewed periodically.

To strengthen security of lockers, banks also monitor access to locker rooms by CCTV cameras and install burglar alarms. Liability to compensate is governed by provisions of extant applicable laws, such as the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and as such, no specific legislation in this regard is proposed.

War-footing steps on to protect Taj from pollution

AAT News Service

A high-level inter-ministerial meeting was held in New Delhi to deliberate on various issues and actions to be taken on war footing to conserve the Taj Mahal. The meeting mainly focussed on action points needed to overcome air and water pollution in and around the Taj.

While briefing the media, the Union Minister for Road Transport & Highways, Shipping & Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation, Nitin Gadkari informed that the government respects the Supreme Court (SC) observations on Taj conservation and will take every possible steps to deal with air and water pollution in and around Taj Mahal.

To deal with air pollution, the use of biofuel, green fuel and electric vehicles will be popularised in Agra. An ethanol policy will be introduced for Agra which will include conversion of biomass to ethanol during the crop-burning season and use of ethanol autorickshaws combined with introduction of mass rapid transport system as a part of policy of zero tolerance to pollution.

A committee will be formed under the chairpersonship of Secretary, Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, C K Mishra, including experts from NEERI (National Environmental Engineering Research Institute), IITs and experts from various organisations to look into the issue of industrial pollution.

To deal with the water pollution in the Yamuna, Mr Gadkari said the cleaning of the Yamuna falls under the Namami Gange Programme, since it is a tributary of the Ganga and several projects are already been taken up to make the river pollution free.

Among some of the measures to be taken up includes afforestation along the Yamuna, construction of rubber dam, solid waste management, developing a 35-kms-long garden along the waterfront of Yamuna in Uttar Pradesh, Haryana and Delhi.

The state government takes the observations made by the SC very seriously and is fully committed to work closely with the Central government as well as other organisation to find the solution to the problem of pollution in and around the Taj, said Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, Yogi Adityanath.

Construction of rubber dam in the downstream of Yamuna and sewage treatment plants on the Yamuna in Mathura, Vrindavan and Agra are being taken up, added CM Adityanath.

Health Min partners with Dell, Tata Trusts to provide tech solution for healthcare prog

THE Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) exchanged the memorandum of understanding (MoU) with Tata Trusts and Dell to provide a technological platform for nationwide prevention, control, screening and management programme of non-communicable diseases (NCDs).

population-based screening under National Health Mission for diabetes, hypertension and three types of common cancers. "Under Ayushman Bharat we have decided to transform 1.5-lakh sub-centre and public health centres into health and wellness centres to provide a bouquet of 12 different kinds of services, of which NCDs form an important part," she added.

Through implementation of the software, it will also be possible to track health trends across the country. Aimed at bringing healthcare technology transformation in CPHC NCD program under Ayushman Bharat, the ministry is working through Dell Giving, Dell's CSR program, and in collaboration with reputed institutions and experts from AIIMS (All India Institutes of Medical Sciences), DGHS (Directorate General of Health Services), WHO (World Health Organization)-India, ICMR (Indian Council for Medical Research), NCHSR (National Health Systems Resource Centre), NICPR (National Institute of Cancer Prevention and Research), Tata Trusts, NIC (National Informatics Centre), Center for Health Informatics (CHI), and IndiaStack team at iSPIRT and state health departments.

The technology solution is hosted on a government data center and managed by Centre for Health Informatics, MoHFW. The Tata Trusts are supporting the quality implementation of the program in states through training, and program management activities to ensure technology adoption amongst health staff and steady progress through continuous monitoring.

Through the Trusts' trained and skilled personnel on the field, health workers, doctors and local administrators have ready access to support and guidance on challenges they may face adopting the IT solution.

The NCD IT solution covers program-level data for screening, referral, diagnosis, treatment and follow-up activities of NCDs with an aim at connecting health workers, doctors and decision makers in a single, integrated platform. It will provide health records for citizens, mobile applications for health workers, a web portal for medical officers and dashboards for health officials, added Ms Patel.

India completes modernisation of KAPS-2 ahead of schedule

AAT News Service

THE second unit of Kakrapar Atomic Power Station (KAPS), 220 MW attained criticality (initiation of controlled self-sustaining nuclear fission chain reaction in the reactor) after completion of renovation & modernisation (R&M) works, encompassing en-masse coolant channel replacement (EMCCR), en-masse feeder replacement (EMFR) and other safety upgrades.

This task was completed about three-and-half-months ahead of schedule. In this endeavour, the Nuclear Power Corporation of India (NPCIL), Nuclear Fuel Complex (manufacturer of coolant channels), Bhabha Atomic Research Centre (BARC) and various vendors/contractors rose to the occasion for this achievement.

The approach to criticality was undertaken after meeting all the stipulated regulatory requirements. This will be followed by conduct of various tests, connection to the grid and increase in power level to full power as per laid-down procedures and regulatory clearances.

KAPS located in Surat district of Gujarat comprises two units struction at this site.

The NPCIL operates 22 nuclear power reactors (including Rajasthan Atomic Power Station-1 of 100 MW owned by Department of Atomic Energy) with a capacity of 6,780 MW and has of indigenous 220 MW pressurized heavy-water reactors (PHWRs – KAPS-1&2) which commenced commercial operation in 1993 and 1995, respectively. Two more units of 700 MW PHWRs (KAPS-3&4) are under construction.

8 reactors with a capacity of 6,200 MW under construction. Work has also been initiated on 12 more reactor's (9,000 MW) accorded administrative approval and financial sanction by the government.

A network of more than 3,400 test practice centres (TPCs) spread across 622 districts in the country was inaugurated recently. These test centres have been set up to facilitate students appearing in entrance examinations for higher education to hold practice sessions to enable them to get used to the changed mode and pattern of examination, said Prakash Javadekar, Union Minister for Human Resource Development (HRD).

While interacting with TPCs, the minister said that "the government is committed to provide quality education with equity, therefore we are launching TPCs across the country for those students who do not have computers and smartphones. Now no student will suffer due to lack of resources".

The government has changed the pattern of JEE (Main) and UGC NET Examination from this year. Now it has become computer-based instead of pen-and-paper mode. The new exam pattern is more transparent, leak proof, scientific, student friendly and fast. In order to provide facility for practice for the changed pattern, the National Testing Agency (NTA) has established TPCs across the country.

NTA has also launched a practice app through which students can practice on their own on their computers or on smartphones. This is the real revolution in the field of competitive examinations. Now students can access IIT PAL (professor-assisted learning) video lecture on SWAYAM platform for the preparation of JEE.

In order to bring efficiency, transparency and qualitative difference in competitive examination process for higher education, the ministry has set up NTA website <<https://www.nta.ac.in>> to conduct entrance tests for higher educational institutions. The NTA has been mandated to conduct JEE (Main), NEET (UG), UGC NET, CMAT and GPAT examinations.

NTA has established a network of TPCs across the country in about 622 districts in 33 states/UTs, so that students of rural areas and others get an opportunity to practice the computer-based test (CBT) before

Expanded Pacific labour schemes could fill looming aged care gap

AAT News Service

A looming severe shortage in aged care workers in Australia and New Zealand could be solved by welcoming more skilled employees from neighbouring Pacific Island countries, according to a new report released by the World Bank.

The report 'Expanding pathways for Pacific Islanders in the Australian and New Zealand aged care sectors', outlines the expected labour requirements of aged care providers; determines the steps required for Pacific Island countries to supply the relevant skills sets; and suggests a model that uses both new and existing migration pathways to deliver more skilled workers.

The report comes following the rollout of the Australian government's new Pacific Labour Scheme, which aims to open up jobs to Pacific Islanders in sectors beyond agriculture, including aged care.

"This study highlights yet another sector where growing needs can be met with a young, educated and enthusiastic Pacific workforce," said Michel Kerf, Country Director for Papua New Guinea and the Pacific Islands.

"We hope this report can be used as a tool for policymakers to find ways, in which workers from the Pacific can effectively engage in the Australian and New Zealand aged care sectors," added Mr Kerf.

"We welcome the announcement, at the Pacific Islands Forum, of expanded access to the Australian Pacific Labour Scheme for Samoa, Solomon Islands and Vanuatu. This is a positive move that will further strengthen our region's close ties, and one that will provide life-changing benefits to thousands of Pacific families," he said.

In Australia and New Zealand, it is expected that existing aged care services will not be able to deliver the quantity and quality of services needed over the coming decades. There are currently 3,66,000 aged care workers in Australia, with the number required expected to be between 8,30,000 and 1.3 million by 2050. In New Zealand, the aged care workforce is expected to grow by 50 to 75 per cent over the coming 15 years.

In contrast, neighbouring Pacific Island countries face a vastly different demographic change, with relatively high fertility rates and growing populations resulting in a 'youth bulge' of young people seeking employment.

Constraints to economic growth in some Pacific Island nations ultimately means that the number of people entering the labour force will far exceed the number of domestic jobs, which is where expanded employment opportunities in Australia and New Zealand could deliver a win-win situation for workers and employers.

To ensure the potential benefits of employing more Pacific Islanders in aged care roles are realised, the report made a number of key observations to guide further research and policy development, including: engaging aged care industry groups and workers in the rollout and design of new preferential Pacific labour migration pathways; and where feasible, creating specific pathways for migrants to enter the aged care sector in New Zealand beyond

World Bank financing to help improve weather forecast in Central Asia

AAT News Service

THE Kyrgyz Republic and Tajikistan, which are highly prone to natural disasters and future climate change risks, will benefit from improved hydrometeorological services, thanks to additional financing to the Central Asia Hydrometeorology Modernization Project (CAHMP).

The World Bank Board of Executive Directors approved $11.5 million in additional loan financing for the project, which has aimed since 2011 to improve the accuracy and timeliness of weather and water forecasting in Central Asia, and thereby contribute to national efforts to protect the population and livelihoods from impacts of natural disasters.

"Weather hazards are responsible for 90 per cent of total disaster losses worldwide, and pose a particular threat to local communities across Central Asia," says Lilia Burunciuc, World Bank Regional Director for Central Asia.

"Faster and more accurate weather information can save lives and help many industries, from agriculture to transport, to anticipate weather-related shocks and take timely action. The World Bank is working closely with countries in Central Asia to improve weather and climate information for resilience."

Central Asian countries are among the most climate vulnerable countries in the Europe and Central Asia region, with Tajikistan ranking first and the Kyrgyz Republic ranking third most vulnerable.

Weather-related disasters such as floods, landslides, mudflows, frosts, droughts, high winds, and avalanches are frequent across these countries, and generally concentrated in mountainous regions. The risks are exacerbated by the limited capacities of countries in the region to predict, anticipate and respond to frequent weather shocks.

The World Bank, through the CAHMP, has already invested $28 million into modernising monitoring networks, improving forecasting facilities and skills, and facilitating regional information sharing.

The project helped to rehabilitate 33 weather stations and structure will enable national hydrometeorological services to build more robust monitoring capacities and better-informed forecasts.

The additional financing will also help national hydrometeorological services develop sustainable business models for improved delivery of public as well as fee-based weather and climate products, in response to increasing demand in sectors such as water, agriculture, energy and transportation.

Better access to critical weather data will deliver significant benefits to the region by boosting agricultural production, ensuring better preparedness for natural disasters and improving climate-resilient planning in the most critical sectors -- agriculture, food security, transport, water resources, energy, and public health.

The new funding, which extends support by three years, is provided by the International Development Association (IDA), with $2.5 million in IDA credit, and $9 million in IDA grants.

New era of transparency & accountability in real estate

AAT News Service

THE Union government is committed to provide positive solution to the problems of home buyers, so that they get their home as soon as possible, said Hardeep Singh Puri, Union Minister of State for Housing and Urban Affairs.

While addressing the first regional workshop on Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA): 'A new era of transparency and accountability in real estate - Two years of implementation and way forward (Western Region)' in Pune, the minister said that the country had no regulator for the real estate sector for nearly 70 years after it gained Independence.

The year 2016 will reveal that year to be a seminal one as that was the year when the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 was enacted by the government under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The year 2016 changed the real estate sector forever and defined the dawn of the post-RERA era.

RERA is characterised by trust, rules, regulations and regulatory oversight as opposed to the pre-2016 period, which essentially was one of mistrust, fraud, cheating and broken promises. The plight of the home buyers who were at the mercy of the developers and bringing discipline in the real estate sector was one of the core objectives of this landmark legislation, said Mr Puri.

"Had RERA been in place, say, 20 or even 10 years ago, consumers would not have had to knock on the doors of the judiciary, as the stringent provisions of RERA would have ensured an ecosystem that would have prevented the entry of 'fly by night' operators. We now have a government that believes in bold and radical reforms, which is determined to bring about a change in the lives of the honest taxpayer. We will and are urging, encouraging and persuading the states to set up the regulatory apparatus envisioned under RERA, speedily," added the minister.

The Act fills the existing gap between the development/municipal laws and the Apartment Ownership Act, and is intended to regulate transactions (buying and selling) and enforcement of contracts. The Act upholds the spirit of federalism by allowing the states to set up the Regulatory Authority and the Appellate Tribunal and the role of the Central government is limited to Union territories (UTs) without legislature.

The Act attempts to balance the interests of the consumers and the developers by imposing clear responsibilities on both, seeks to establish symmetry of information between the promoter and the purchaser; transparency of contractual conditions; set minimum standards of accountability; and a fast-track dispute resolution mechanism.

The Act is aimed at consumer protection, by creating an online system for information sharing so that there is mutual trust between the developer and the buyers, and projects are implemented in time. The Indian real estate sector has witnessed transformative reforms in the last few years.

"According to CREDAI-JLL report, the contribution of housing sector to the Indian GDP is expected to be 11 per cent by 2020, up from current 5-6 per cent. The Indian real estate market is expected to touch $180 billion by 2020 and $350 billion by 2027 - where the products will be more structured and pre-planned," said Mr Puri.

Outlining the progress since the enactment of the RERA, the minister said, "all states/UTs have notified the rules under RERA, except Jammu & Kashmir; 6 North-eastern states (be-first states to implement the provision of RERA and establish the RERA of Maharashtra, which is popularly known as MahaRERA. MahaRERA is taking big (Maha) initiatives such as first state in India to initiate the conciliation mechanism, by way of alternative dispute resolution to redress the issue of aggrieved home buyers and look forward to an early and amicable resolution of their disputes with their developers in Maharashtra.

Maharashtra has the highest number of projects (17,567) and real estate agents (16,045) registered with authority - higher than any other authority.

Madhya Pradesh is fully RERA-compliant state, which has established regular authority, tribunal and have fully-functional web portal to enable the registration of project and agents. Recently, Gujarat has also established its regular authority and others (Rajasthan and Goa) are on their way to implement RERA in their states.

The Corporate Affairs Ministry has conferred the status of 'financial creditors' on home buyers. The dialogue with that ministry has finally resulted in another path-breaking amendment to the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code. The amendment provides the home buyer the status of a 'financial creditor', a move that will allow him to initiate insolvency proceedings on par with that of the financial institutions, added the minister.

By empowering the home buyer through a legislative mechanism, the government has once again demonstrated through action that it has the best interests of the consumer and places it on the highest pedestal.

Maharashtra is one of the first states to implement the provision of Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) and establish the RERA of Maharashtra, which is popularly known as MahaRERA. Maharashtra has the highest number of projects (17,567) and real estate agents (16,045) registered with the authority
